In Section B.2.1 of the Validation protocol it is stated that

"The explanation [of the additionality] demonstrates the existence of prevailing practice barrier, institutional barrier, changes in policy risks and increased fuel prices risks and other barriers adequately"

Even though this might be correct, the DOE still needs to qualitatively address the additionality.

On p. 16 of the PDD it is described that in order to calculate the build margin, the 20 % of the most recent plants will be taken in to consideration. On p. 30 (step 10) it is indicated that the build margin is calculated using the recent 5 plants built. Hence the calculation of the build margin is not made in a transparent manner. This is not addressed by the DOE.
