The requirements of semi-annual flare efficiency measurement of AM0006 are not followed and the combustion efficiency of 98% provided by the manufacturer is applied instead, considered to be more conservative (then the 99% stipulated for closed flares in AM00016). Accordingly a new monitoring plan is seemingly developed including weekly testing of the electric flare igniters and monthly checking of the safety valve, but such a plan not been attached nor included in the existing monitoring plan. The proper procedure for such a case is requesting a deviation.

The LoA by the Chilean DNA does not explicitly declare the voluntary participation by the Host Country but only confirms the voluntary participation by the company.
