

Review focus

While all comments and suggestions to improve the draft of the manual are welcome, the following focus is requested in your review:

- Formatting and editing of the text is not yet finalized in this draft. The page layout and composition, as well as preparation of illustrations, will be finalized at a later stage. This aspect may be overlooked at this stage.
- Particular attention is requested to the following aspects of the draft:
 - Where the text makes an ambiguous or confusing reading;
 - Where text might imply incorrect or inaccurate representation of CDM requirements (incomplete representation is still OK, the manual does not aim to capture all the CDM requirements);
 - Where more value can be added by including additional content;
 - Where content can be deleted without losing value;
 - Where content appears incongruous or incompatible with the purpose or standing of the manual.
- The following should be kept in view to establish the context of the manual
 - The manual is intended for persons who are not already familiar with the CDM (newcomers);
 - The purpose of the manual is to facilitate access of the interested reader to the CDM rules and regulations. It is intended as a bridge to the CDM rules and regulations, and not as a substitute for the rules and regulations.
